something, so we told Leah's mom that we were going to leave and we drove around for awhile. We went up to Brent Bartley's house cause I wanted to tell to Brent and see what he was doing tonight. He said, he asked me if I wanted to go up to his grandparents house and go watch a movie with Leah and he wanted to go with his girlfriend and I told him sure. So, we picked him up, we drove around, went out to my house, got some movies, sat out there for awhile. I don't know exact time it was but my dad was out there and he would know what time it was cause I remember him saying that I couldn't take the movies from him or I better bring them back tonight or something like that. We ended up leaving and we came back to Brent's house, sat there for awhile, then we went up to Brent's grandma's and sat there from I don't know either from 5:30pm 5-5:30 to about 6:45 maybe 6:55.

Chief: At Brent's grandma's were you in the house or out of the house?

Nick: We were in the house watching well we were in the house for a little bit and we started watching Wild Wild West but Leah didn't want to watch it because she thought it was stupid so we took it out and we rewound it for her and then we ended ok we made Leah wait I remember that, we took out the movie and we were all hungry and we made Leah wait there because she didn't want to go, she was just tired and wanted to lay down for awhile and we went into town and got some steaks got some pop I think it was.

Chief: Hold on a second, were the grandparents there?

Nick: no, they were in Germany but we called Brent's mom and he always asks for permission to go up there and everything and nobody was up there except for us four well us three at that time.

Chief: How did you get in the house?

Nick: He has a key

Chief: He has a key?

Nick: (yes) and when we came back we cooked the steaks, I didn't eat nothing, Leah and Brent ended up eating we sat around, sat on the deck, she was like laying down, she sat in the sun for awhile. We left about 6:45 6:55 we took her to Cheri's and then Brent came with me and we went pick Nikki up which is his girlfriend took them I took them back to that house and sat there for like 10 20 minutes and I decided I wanted to go because I just wanted go and I just didn't want to be there with them and I figure I would let them have their time alone you know. I went to Fast Mart, hung there for awhile, drove around, I talked to a couple of people, I talked to Aaron West and I talked to I think Ricky Crook and a couple of people after that and I don't know I just drove around until I had to go pick her back up because I was just waiting for her and after that I went there back about 9:00 maybe five past nine and Cheri said that they got into an argument, she was bailing and that she just left and I could probably catch her if I went and looked for her.

Chief: you dropped her off Brent Bartley was with you?

Nick: (yes)

Chief: ok

Nick: He was sitting in the back.

Chief: He was sitting in the back and you got a front seat and all that?

Nick: (yes)

Chief: ok

Nick: and after that I went back I left by to go by Fast Mart I took I went straight there by McKays I can't remember which street I went on but I ended up taking a left to back up Central to see if she was walking home, I didn't see I came back came back through Central didn't see her I think I went by the park I check at the park, I check at the Cruise Inn, I check at the Nazarene Church, I check at West Coquille turn off, I checked at Sturdivant, I drove the loop, I basically drove everywhere for that four hours looking for her and I didn't see her once and everybody else saw her well not everybody Mark was the only one I talked to that night that seen her and that was about all.

*Cherry
Leah*

Chief: You said Mark was with somebody else?

Nick: No, Mark wasn't with anybody

Chief: Mark was with Mike McAdams (?)

Nick: Oh that was at Hunters when she they saw her walking by. He talked to me later I didn't see them at Hunters. He came and flagged me down to see what I was doing and I asked him if he'd seen Leah and he said yeah, me and Mike McAdams were at Hunters and we saw her walked by and I was like ok and he's all and where could she be I was like I don't know I was like she was just walking around maybe she went home and he was like ok well drive around I'm going to go home I was like well alright and I ended up being like the only one in town looking around I talked to Zavala, talked to Danny and they said they hadn't seen anybody walking around or anything. I went back to Cheri's house at like 10:15 and talked to her, I called Leah's mom and after that I ended up going to Fast Mart I think and called my mom and asking her if Leah called or if Leah was out there or anything and she said no so I said ok I'd be home sometime I didn't know when. And then I ended up going by Leah's house....no...yeah I ended up going by Leah's house I think and then I think I went back up to Brent's grandparent's house and I picked him and Nikki up and I took Nikki home at like 11, 11, 11:30 maybe midnight I think it was and Brent cruised around with me and that's when we saw Richard Bryant walking around town and I had already talked to him earlier and seen if he'd seen her and he said no and Brent ended up getting out with Richard and they started walking around and I left and I told Brent I would stop by his house and I think they ended coming up to Brent's house or something they didn't walk around town or anything. But I went by Leah's a couple of times I threw rocks at her window to see if she was, I thought she was but evidently she wasn't because her mom called me in the morning. And I went back to Brent's right before I went home it was late late and he was the only one there and he was sleeping and I opened up the door and he asked who it was and I asked I told him it was me and I asked if he'd seen her and he was like no he was like she ain't around I was like no I haven't seen her one bit and he was like well I hadn't heard from her either and I was like alright well I'm going to go home and I probably ended up going home after that and I don't know what time it was but it was probably around 2. And after that I don't know, there was so many things that went on I went everywhere, I basically drove every street I could drive and every place I thought she would stop and think anything. Because I didn't know if she was mad or if she was depressed or what was going on or if someone took her I didn't know what to think. That's just not that's not Leah she doesn't walk off I mean she going to tell someone where she is or what she's doing I mean if not me she would tell her mom or she would of told somebody. I just don't get it she doesn't just walk off I know that.

Chief: How would you characterize her personal life?

Nick: When she's around me I don't know she just seems really bright, happy go lucky, and giggly and I don't know she's fun to be around, I don't know she's an easy person to talk to once you know her I don't know she's just a really good person.

Chief: I'm going to ask you a few questions you have to realize we're trying to find a missing person

Nick: (yes)

Chief: We're not trying to get anybody in trouble or anything else but we do need as much information as possible.

Nick: ok

Chief: Did she use alcohol?

Nick: No, she's drank a couple of times that's about all

Chief: Were you all drinking that day up at Brent's house?

Nick: (No), I don't drink and drive she would of drank because Chief: What was wearing?

Nick: It's a wife they call well people call it a wife beater that's what the term is but it's a tank top it's a tight tank top it's kind of something you wear underneath a shirt and she had blue jeans on

Chief: What was this tank top could you describe it?

Nick: It was just white it's I don't know don't they have like little thread lines on them that go down that's about all there is nothing to them like

Woman: It's like the tank tops that men wear for t-shirts.

Chief: ok, I know what you mean

Nick & Woman: yeah

Chief: Any kind of marks on it, stains?

Nick: not that I know of....well I think on this side or this it was on her left side I think there was a little like a little black like a stain mark I don't know what it was from it could have been from anything it hard to say what it that could have been from it was like a blackish color on there it wasn't very noticeable I mean it was Chief: It wasn't a new shirt?

Nick: Oh no, she's had that tank top for a long time. She wore it quite a bit during summer.

Chief: ok. Drugs?

Nick: No

Chief: Marijuana?

Nick: No, that's what I don't get dude. She's a very shy person, she doesn't just go out and talk to anybody she doesn't just go out and get in nobody's car if she doesn't know them I mean I don't get it. She's a very good girl I mean she's like almost pretty much perfect in every way except for she can have a little attitude sometimes that's just cause she's a girl.

Chief: Yeah

Nick: Kids though too, teenagers are like that short fused

Chief: I've never been a teenager so

Nick: No, I haven't made it yet I left my house at like 12 12:15 and I didn't have time I wanted to make it here on time.

Chief: Do you know Chris Cranford and Nick: Josh Courtright?

Chief: yeah

Nick: I know both of them. Josh Courtright is related to Leah.

Chief: Did they talk to you?

Nick: I talked to Chris Cranford, he was walking around last night. I drove right by him and Maggie saw it saw him so I turned around cause I hadn't talk to him yet and he told me that they might of seen her yesterday about noon to one right by the Fairview turn off walking into town on the sidewalk part of the road with another girlfriend that had like a blonde blondish hair but he said that he wasn't sure if it was her or not but Chief: Did she ever have problems at home?

Nick: Her parents were divorced she uh I her depression maybe has a lot to do with her childhood.

Chief: What depression?

Nick: huh?

Chief: What depression?

Nick: From her dad not caring about her from not...totally excluding her out

Chief: A minute ago you told me she was happy go lucky

Nick: She is, she is but if something like that comes up like if you call her like say something about her father she'll get depressed I mean she can easily be hurt but she is a very happy person. It just depends on what she's doing you know what she's thinking about you just don't you aint going to sit there and dwell on not having a dad your whole life I mean if things come up and you start talking about er

Chief: Stayed with the Mitchell's at their house

Nick: Like because like before any of this had happened like she

Chief: Yeah, before any of this had happened.

Nick: I don't think she stayed I don't think that's happened, not that I know of

Chief:

Nick: About yeah, about that

Chief: She made (?)

Nick: Yeah, cause her and Cheri were best friends there for a long time.

Chief: Can you think of anybody we outta to talk to?

Hall: (something) Raymond Lewis?

Nick: He lives straight down from Leah's house, you just go uh I think it's 2 the 2nd right it's right on that side.

Chief: It's on Knott Street?

Hall: The second right would be West 9th

Woman: Yeah, it's right on that corner.

Nick: It's like on the opposite side of the street of Middleton's house but it's right on that corner

Hall: Oh, wait a minute ok

Nick: Like you go down and take a right but it's over it's right on that corner right here it's right there.

Hall: Oh, ok and there's a trailer there?

Nick: Yeah, there's a little camper trailer thingy and its got a fence around the house and they got a dog in the back yard. They have a big they have a big blue they have a big blue Chevy there. He drives a big Chevy it's like an 84 or 88

Woman: What about the two that saw her, possibly saw her yesterday. I would think that those two would be

Chief: Ok

Hall: Take a run out there

Nick: But I know she was not under the influence of anything cause like she told me like she's only drank like once and that was like two years ago like at Easter at Nick Prescott's house and she told me she got drunk and that was the only time I know of her doing that. I don't know, that's what I don't get. She would of called somebody by now. I don't know. She would at least contacted me if she would of ran away and she might have been scared to come home she would of called me to ask her what to do you know and what should I do? I would of told her everything's fine, just come home, we're all worried about you but she hasn't even contacted me so that's why I think something is up I just don't know what's going on.

Chief: Did she have any problems with anybody?

Nick: Just besides that argument with Cheri and her mom that a couple days before Wednesday I think it was Monday, we were at Fast Mart and I was getting a pack of cigarettes and Cheri's mom pulls up and Leah sees her. Leah gets out of the car to go and say hi to her and she's all so what are you doing at Fast Mart Leah and she's all I'm just sitting we're getting, Nick's getting a pack of cigarettes and she's all oh so I expected more of you, you're hanging out at Fast Mart and we were there for like two or three minutes. They pulled up a minute after we got there and Leah came back to me and like was almost just crying, she was like kinda hugged me and put her head on my shoulder and she was like I can't believe she said that cause Cheri is like was like her best friend and Peg was like so nice to her and to go and say that to her like that like that just I don't know that would hurt me too. Then she ended up going to Cheri's house at during on Wednesday and then that happened and then when they got into an argument and Cheri's mom wouldn't let Cheri go running with Leah, Leah thought it was because Cheri's mom doesn't like Leah and she hates her and she told Cheri that and Cheri tried to persuade her differently but she ended up leaving anyway and when I got there Cheri was balling her eyes out. But then she said to Cory Cheri's mom or Leah's mom that it wasn't that big of an argument it wasn't that big of a deal but you don't cry about something that that's not that big of a deal.

Chief: Anything else Dave?

Hall: No Sir

Nick: Is that fine?

Chief: Oh, that's great thank you

Nick: That's as much as I can remember

Chief: This concludes the statement of Nick McGuffin and it is 1410

Narrative

On 06/29/00, at approximately 1100 hours, I was in Coquille P.D.'s dispatch center when Cory Courtright arrived with additional information on her missing daughter. She made a missing person report earlier in the morning.

Ms. Courtright was visibly upset, to the point of tears. She told me her daughter, Leah Freeman, left a friend's house, walking, and never arrived home. Leah was last seen at approximately 2100 hours on 06/28/00. Ms. Courtright and friends have been looking for her since early morning on 06/29/00.

She described Leah as a "good" kid, no problems at home and very stable. She has never run away and isn't the type to run away.

Dispatcher Barb Thurman took the missing person report. She said soon after Ms. Courtright made the initial report, Ashley Hutchinson called the police department looking for Ms. Courtright. Ashley said she saw Leah on 06/28/00, around 2100 hours, walking in front of McKay's Market on N. Central Blvd.

Ms. Courtright provided a picture of Leah and said she and friends were going to continue to search.

At 1430 hours, Officer Dave Hall and I began a cursory search of the area where Leah was last seen. Officer Hall said he was just on Central and thought he saw a young female, who fit Leah's description, walking with a young man on Central near Hunter's.

We went to the area, but couldn't locate the two people. We went to Ms. Courtright's home, where Officer Hall asked about Leah's shirt. The girl he saw had a tank top with colored stripes across the chest. He was advised Leah owned a shirt like the one he described, and the boy fit the description of a stock boy at McKay's.

We went to McKay's, where Officer Hall interviewed the manager and the stock boy's aunt. I patrolled the area and located two people who fit Hall's description, on Alder St, behind the Oregon Federal Credit Union. The girl was not Leah Freeman.

I brought Officer Hall to the area and he verified the two people were the ones he saw, but now recognized the female was not Leah Freeman.

We returned to Coquille P.D. and contacted Officer Dave Zavala. I asked him to interview Cory Courtright and obtain a list of people who saw Leah on 06/28/00. I also asked him to interview Cherie and Peggy Mitchell at 444 1/2 N. Elm.

Officer Hall and I continued searching areas in Coquille frequented by teenagers until 1730 hours.

Between 1800 and 1900 hours, I walked the area between W. 4th St and Coquille High School on N. Central, checking the area just off the road. There was nothing unusual in the area.

On 06/30/00, at 0700 hours, I noted a report by Officer Zavala on a disturbance between Bill Middleton and Nick McGuffin. (Refer to case 00-1911). I advised Officer Hall of the report and asked him to contact Cory Courtright, to determine further developments, and contact Officer Zavala to obtain the results of his investigation.

At 0800, I received a telephone call from Ms. Courtright. She remembered that Leah and Nick visited Brent Bartley's grandparent's (Neil and Dorothy Haga) home at the very end of Fir Street (Dean Minard Rd). She thought we could check to see if Leah might be there.

Officer Hall followed up on information he received from Ms. Courtright. At approximately 0940 hours, Officer Hall and I went to the Haga residence. We rang the door bell, but received no response. We checked the area around the house and found a man's white tank top t-shirt by a trash compactor near a utility room door. The rear deck of the house had several empty beer cans and a funnel (with hose attached) on it. The house was secure and the curtains were drawn on all window's and doors except the living room sliding door.

From the Haga residence, we went to speak to Cory Courtright to establish a chronology of events for 06/28/00. She related the following:

Leah and Nick (McGuffin) were at the residence most of the day. They spent a portion of the time washing Nick's car and cleaning the car windows. Leah was happy and laughing. She appeared untroubled.

Sometime around 1600 hours, Leah and Nick left. Leah said she was going to Cherie's at 1900 hours for a couple of hours.

At 2015 hours, she received a call from Nick, asking if Leah was home. He said he arrived at Cherie's house at 2108 hours, but Leah was gone. He looked for her up and around Central, but couldn't find her. Nick said he would continue to look for her.

She (Cory) went to bed, awoke at 0300 hours, and found that Leah wasn't home. She stayed awake, thinking Leah might come in. At 0800 she called Nick's home. At that point, they began looking for Leah.

She said Nick told her he came by at 0200 and thought he saw a TV light on in Leah's room. He was unable to get anyone's attention (called to Ms. Courtright, threw rocks at Leah's window), so he went home.

We left Ms. Courtright and went to Coquille High School, where we contacted Tim Pflaum and Carl Wilson. I asked about yearbook picture proofs. Mr. Pflaum said the High School didn't keep the proofs, but he would contact the photographer to see if he had one.

Officer Hall and I returned to the office to organize our data and plan for the afternoon. Officer Hall called Nick McGuffin and made an appointment to take his statement at 1330 hours.

At 1330 hours, Nick McGuffin came to the police department with his mother. He asked about development and if we had a recent photo of Leah. Over the lunch hour, a yearbook proof of Leah was brought to the police department. I showed the photo to Nick. He reacted very strongly at seeing the picture - he became choked up, teary eyed and had difficulty catching his breath. (Note: The reaction seemed too strong, given the situation at this point)

Officer Hall and I interviewed Nick, with his mother present. We went over the situation, then taped his statement.

Nick said he was at Leah's house in the afternoon, they were washing his car. He went into detail about how they cleaned the windows. He indicated they were getting along very well and were happy and laughing.

Between 1400 and 1600 hours, they left and went to Brent Bartley's. They picked up Bartley and went riding around. They went to McGuffin's home, picked up some videos, then went to the Haga residence to watch the videos. They started to watch "Wild Wild West", but Leah thought it was stupid, so they rewound it.

At 1900 hours, McGuffin and Bartley dropped Leah off at 444 1/2 N. Elm, the Mitchell residence. She asked him to come back at 2100 hours to pick her up, said she wouldn't be long.

At 2105 hours (time approximate), he returned to the Mitchell's to find Leah had already left. Cherie was upset and crying as she and Leah had a misunderstanding. McGuffin went to look for her.

He drove up Central, toward her house, but didn't see her. He continued looking, at different places where they would go, but didn't find her.

At 2215 hours, he returned to Cherie Mitchell's house, to see if Leah had returned or called. He used Cherie's phone to call Cory Courtright. He asked if Leah was home, she wasn't. He continued to look for her.

He called his mom at 2230 hours to see if Leah walked to his house. He drove around until 0200 hours, when he drove by Leah's house. He thought he saw a TV light on in her room. He tried to get Leah's or Cory's attention, but couldn't. He drove home and went to bed. Around 0800 on 062900, Cory called asking about Leah. At that point he started searching again.

(Note: During the interview, McGuffin mentioned that Ray Lewis saw Leah at 2130 hours at Fast Mart)

At 1440 hours, Officer Hall and I returned to the Haga residence to retrieve the tank top we saw on our earlier visit. During our interview with McGuffin, his description of Leah's shirt led us to believe the one at Haga's house might be hers. When we arrived, the shirt was gone and the beer cans on the deck were cleaned up. We found the kitchen sliding glass door was unlocked and open. We checked the house, but it was empty.

We went to the Courtright home to speak to Cory, but she was not home. We checked the supposed Bartley address given to us by McGuffin, but it wasn't accurate.

We rechecked the Haga residence, then went to the police department. Cory Courtright was there and we obtained a better description of Leah's shirt. She also mentioned that her family, particularly her brother, think that McGuffin is involved in Leah's disappearance.

Between 1600 and 1730, I made a press release on the disappearance and briefed Officers Dan Lee and Dave Zavala on the investigation to date.

At 1900, I returned to the office to check information supplied by Officer Dan Lee.

Courtright and her daughters, (Leah and Denise), lived with James Murphy at 351 W 5th St for a time. I spoke to Officer Hall and we began to check varying leads.

At 2000 hours, I met with Murphy at his residence. He said Courtright and her daughters moved out over 7 weeks ago. He witnessed no problems with Leah and thought she was a good kid. He hasn't seen Leah, or any of the others, in awhile.

I left at 2015 hours. I stopped at Cedar and 6th to make notes. Murphy drove by me 5 minutes later.

At 2028 hours, I checked Ray Lewis' home, but no one was there.

At 2130 hours, I stopped at Fast Mart and spoke to those present in the parking lot. Most knew Leah, but had no information. All said they would contact me if they saw or heard anything.

I drove around, checking different hangouts until 2200 hours, then cleared for the day.

On 07/01/00, I returned to Coquille PD at 0815 hours to continue working this case. I reviewed reports and follow ups from officers on the swing and midnight shifts. Officer Dave Hall arrived and we began organizing the new information. Several leads, generated by the newspaper article, came in. Officer Hall took the information and began the investigation and verification of the reports.

From 1000 to 1300 hours, I examined reports and wrote my report. At 1300 hours, Officer Hall and I created a time line of Leah's movement from 2100 hours through the last time she was seen on 062800.

We received information from dispatch that she might have been seen at Hwy 42 and W Central Blvd. This was a favorite parking spot for Leah and McGuffin. Officer Hall and I went to the area and walked the parking lot and hillside up to 1/2 mile west of the intersection. We didn't locate anything related to this case.

We returned to the P.D. to plan the evening investigation on the case. I briefed Officer Randy Ulmer on contacts and investigation.

I took the photo of Leah and made several copies of it for distribution to other agencies. At 1200 hours, I was contacted by Patty Peak, a relative of Cory Courtright. She said she spoke to Denny Freeman and Cory about offering a reward for information leading to Leah's location. Ms. Peak informed me she was offering a $5000.00 reward. The information was already placed on posters around Coquille.

Between 1900 and 2100 hours, Officer Ulmer contacted me with information he received during the evening. (See his supplement for detailed descriptions).

On 07/02/00 at 0830 hours, I returned to the office to continue on this case. I reviewed and approved officers Lee and Ulmer's reports from the previous evening.

I contacted "The World" newspaper and gave them information on the reward. I updated the time line chart with new information, and instructed dispatch to send pictures and reports to the county law enforcement agencies. I made several more pictures of Leah to distribute to county law enforcement agencies.

Volunteer Jason Barkley hand carried photos and information to the CCSO, Coos Bay PD, North Bend PD and Bandon PD. I contacted Coos Bay PD and asked them to check Cindy Warner's address (1826 Thomas St, Coos Bay) to check for Leah.

At 1445, I was contacted by "The Sentinel" for updated information and the reward information was passed on.

Officer Shelly Grant notified the National Center for Missing Children about this case and gave them pertinent information. She also updated our LEDS/NCIC broadcast from "Attempt to Locate-Missing Juvenile" to "Endangered Missing Juvenile".

At 1450 hours, I received a phone call from Tim Nottingham, loss prevention at Fred Meyers in Coos Bay. Frances Maguire, the Fred Meyer Western Union Clerk, had contact with a man, identified as Phil Jackson, that made her suspicious. The man has been in several times this week for Western Union money orders. He saw the Leah Freeman reward posters and began talking about the situation. I spoke to Ms. Maguire who said the man became "excited" when he heard about the reward amount. Jackson's address is 735 N Knott St, Coquille, but he gave a Coos Bay phone number (266-5860).

At 1515 hours, Sgt. Lounsbury, Coos Bay P.D., called and said he checked the Warner address on Thomas Street. He contacted Cindy Warner, who allowed a search at her apartment. Ms. Warner was aware of Leah's disappearance. She said she and her daughter Elizabeth haven't seen or heard from Leah. She will contact a police agency if she hears from Leah.

1           Q. What's the -- during your time as Chief, and I
2 want to kind of switch over to the Freeman
3 investigation now, what were the criteria for 4 classifying an investigation as a homicide
5 investigation?

6           A. I don't understand what you're talking about 7 now.

8           Q. Well, at some point when it started, it was a
9 missing person investigation, right? And then at some 10 point it became a homicide investigation. So I'm just 11 wondering, what are the criteria?

12          A. All right. It went -- it was a missing person
13 investigation that went to an endangered missing
14 person. We treated it as a major case after a certain
15 period of time, and then it became a homicide
16 investigation when we found out there was a homicide.

17          Q. Okay. So when did you find out there was a 18 homicide?

19          A. When we found the deceased person.

20          Q. Okay. So is that the criteria for classifying
21 something as a homicide, once you have a body?

22          A. Well, if we knew -- if there was something prior
23 to that, if we had known there was an act that caused a 24 homicide before that, it would've been in homicide at 25 the time we knew of the act. But not having an act at

Agency Case 00-1905
Lab No. 00N-481

Please refer to previous report(s) by Kathy Wilcox.

SUMMARY: The tennis shoes and blood on the shoes match Leah Freeman. Leah Freeman is excluded as the contributor of the major profile in the mixture from Exhibit #11 (white sock). Leah Freeman is excluded as the contributor of the profile from Exhibit #12 (Adidas sock).

On July 18, 2000, this laboratory received sealed from the Coos Bay Laboratory via UPS the following:

- Exhibit 1: One Nike tennis shoe, right. Cuttings were taken and labeled 1.1-1.3.
- Exhibit 2: One Nike tennis shoe, left. Cuttings were taken and labeled 2.2-2.4.
- Exhibit 2.1.1-2.2.6: Swabs from blood on left shoe sole. DNA analysis was performed on Exhibits 2.1.2 and 2.1.4.
- Exhibit 4: Toothbrush from Leah Freeman used as secondary standard.

On July 25, 2000, this laboratory received sealed from the Coos Bay Laboratory via UPS the following:

- Exhibit 9: Oral standard from Corliss Courtright.
- Exhibit 10: Oral standard from Dennis Freeman.

On August 3, 2000, this laboratory received sealed from the Coos Bay Laboratory via UPS the following:

- Exhibit 11: One white sock. Cuttings were taken and labeled 11.1 and 11.2.

On August 16, 2000, this laboratory received sealed via Danny Burgard the following:

- Exhibit 12: One Adidas anklet sock. Cuttings were taken and labeled 12.1-12.3. DNA analysis was performed on Exhibit 12.3. Trace evidence was collected, but not examined at this time.

DNA from the above items was extracted, amplified and typed at the amelogenin locus and the STR loci listed below by capillary electrophoresis, using the AmpFISTR Profiler Plus and Cofiler PCR amplification kits:

CONCLUSIONS:

1. The DNA profile from Exhibit 1 (right Nike shoe) and Exhibit 2.1.2 (swab from blood on left sole) matches the DNA profile from Leah Freeman (Exhibit 4). The frequency of occurrence of an unrelated individual in a random population exhibiting this STR profile is less than 1 in 10 billion in Caucasians, Hispanics and African-Americans.
2. The DNA profile from Leah Freeman's toothbrush is consistent with coming from a child of Corliss Courtright (Exhibit 9) and Dennis Freeman (Exhibit 10).
3. The DNA profiles from Exhibit 2.3 (left Nike shoe) indicate the presence of DNA from more than one person. The major profile is consistent with coming from Leah Freeman. The minor profile is from a male.
4. The DNA profiles from Exhibit 11 (white sock) indicates the presence of DNA from more than one person. Leah Freeman is excluded as the contributor of the major profile in this mixture. The minor profile is below the threshold for making a conclusive determination.
5. Leah Freeman is excluded as the contributor to the DNA profile from Exhibit 12.3 (Adidas sock). The profile is from a male. This profile has been compared to profiles stored in the Oregon State Police databases. No matches were found at this time. This profile will be stored and periodically compared to said databases, as new samples continue to be received. Should a future match be found, you will be notified at that time.

The population frequencies are calculated from the allele frequencies found in the FBI STR databases published in the Journal of Forensic Sciences (JFSCAS 44(6)(1999)).

Agency Case 00-1905
Lab No. 00N-000481

Please refer to the previous reports regarding this case.

On March 8, 2002, this laboratory received the following sealed evidence via UPS from the Coos Bay laboratory:

Exhibit 48: Oral standard from William Sero.

On April 4, 2002, this laboratory received the following sealed evidence via UPS from the Coos Bay laboratory:

Exhibit 51: One purple nitrile glove. Swabs were collected from the inside and outside of the glove.

DNA from the above items was extracted, amplified and typed at the amelogenin locus and the STR loci listed below by capillary electrophoresis, using the AmpFISTR Profiler Plus PCR amplification kit:

| Profiler Loci |         |
|----------------------|---------|
| D3S1358              | D18S51  |
| vWA                  | D5S818  |

| D8S1179              | D7S820  |
| D21S11               |         |

Conclusions:

1. William Sero is excluded as a contributor of the DNA profiles detected on the previously examined Exhibit 2.3 (shoe), Exhibit 11 (white sock), and Exhibit 12.3 (adidas sock).
2. No DNA was detected on Exhibit 51 (purple glove).

RESULTS OF LABORATORY EXAMINATIONS*Right Shoe EX1 OON-481

No blood staining was found on this shoe. Other than wear and tear type damage to the shoe there were no signs that the shoe had been recently damaged or scuffed whilst being dragged across the ground.

Traces of blood were found on the underside, towards the inner aspect. An area of diffuse blood staining was found on the lace, approximately 40 centimeters from one end. Areas had been cut from the back of the tongue and ankle, presumably for other tests prior to my examination. In the absence of any DNA profiling results I am unable to assess whether or not any of the remaining blood should be tested further.

The left shoe smells of decay and degradation, in a similar manner to the clothing, whereas the right shoe does not.

It was noted that the linings of both shoes bear several pils of red fibres. Such extraneous fibres could be matched with socks worn with the shoes.

Clothing

The clothing was found to be in a much worse condition than envisaged

looking at photographs of the deceased where she was found. The garments had an extensive covering of decayed body tissue and fats on the inner surfaces. Some of this had transferred to outer areas possibly due to their having been packaged.

Loose extraneous surface fibres and debris have been recovered from those less contaminated areas on the jeans, vest and bra, however the tapings have not been examined further.

No semen has been found on the vest or bra.

The jeans were tested for semen and none found. This was achieved by using our usual chemical screening method to indicate possible semen followed by extraction of selected areas and preparation of a stained microscope slide to identify sperm. Whilst no semen was found, I cannot exclude the possibility that there may be azospermic semen present, ie semen from a vasectomised male, but I am reasonably sure that there are no sperm on the jeans.

On receipt at the laboratory examination of the jeans indicated the presence of two 'holes' in the seat/crotch area. This damage was presumably present when the body was recovered and not created during laboratory examinations.

Swabs were taken from the button and zip pull of the jeans fastener, however, these areas were not void of other staining found on the garment and hence may not be suitable for Low Copy Number DNA profiling. These swabs have been retained for return with the other case exhibits.

No specific area of blood staining was found on the garments probably due to the extensive body tissue staining on them. Two areas of more concentrated blood staining were found on the lower back of the vest, but there is nothing to indicate that this has resulted from a specific injury other than decomposition of the body.

Damage to the jeans and vest/bra is consistent with chemical effect on fabrics of body tissue/fats and chemicals leaching from the body over a period of time. Other smaller areas of damage may be rodent bite marks. Areas on the straps and upper back of the vest/ bra indicate the presence of broken elastic threads in the shoulder straps. I am unable to assess whether or not this damage has resulted from contact with a sharp edge or a result of from another mechanism such as rodent action.

Damage to the back of the upper garments whilst not overlapping, could be considered to have occurred whilst the garments were worn together, allowing for some movement between the layers of garments. However, with the exception of a cut in the hem of the top, there is nothing to indicate how or when the damage was made. The possibility that Leah was stabbed cannot be eliminated, however, any 'stab' cuts are no longer recognisable due to the decay in the fabrics.

Summary and Conclusion

- 1) There is nothing to indicate the presence of semen on the items examined.
- 2) There is no specific pattern in blood to indicate trauma such as a stabbing assault, although such a possibility cannot be discounted.
- 3) Tapings and swabblings will be retained at laboratory in connection with this case.
- 4) The overall findings provide no additional scientific evidence to assist in addressing the issue as to the cause of LEAH FREEMAN's death or the identity of her assailant.

Re: Status Report - Leah Freeman Homicide Investigation

Dear Lt. Smith,

This status report describes the analyses we have conducted to date regarding the above referenced case.

Samples:

Three waves of evidence were received by our laboratory:

Wave 1 – received 17 July 2009

- Exhibit 26 – tape lift from shirt
- Exhibit 27 – two tape lifts from pants

Wave 2 – received 10 Feb 2010

- Item # 3224 – foam from inside trunk latch
- Item # 3225 – fiber material from trunk
- Item # 3226 – carpet from back window
- Item # 3231 – four tape lifts from trunk
- Item # 3233 – vacuum filters from trunk (two filters) and back seat (one filter)

Wave 3 – received 24 May 2010

- Item # 212 – blue jean pants
- Item # 213 – tank top shirt
- Item # 214 – sports bra
- Item # 160 – Nike shoe (also listed as # 215)
- Item # 170 – Nike shoe (also listed as # 216)

MT09-0075

006976

As with the arrival of the evidence, our examination can be divided into three waves:

Wave 1

The three tapelifts, one from the shirt (Ex. 26) and two from the pants (Ex. 27), were examined for the presence of trace evidence. Various particles of debris, including numerous fibers and hairs, both animal and human, were observed on the tape lifts. Nine human hairs (coded 4A, 17C, 19A, 19C, 20D #1, 20D #2, 23D, 28B #1, and 28B #2) from the shirt tape lift were isolated, placed on individual slides, and returned to Kris Karcher, on 28 January 2010, for DNA analysis.

Wave 2

Preliminary examinations were conducted on the foam from the trunk (# 3224), the fibrous material from the trunk (# 3225), and the carpet from the back window (#3226). The carpet from the back window appears to be residential in origin and therefore, did not originate from the vehicle.

our examination primarily focused on the tapelifts (# 3231) and the vacuum samples (# 3233) from the trunk and back seat of the vehicle.

Various particles of debris, including numerous fibers and hairs, both animal and human, were observed on the tape lifts and the material from the vacuum samples. Two human hairs (coded trunk #1 and trunk #2) were isolated from the trunk vacuum samples, placed on individual slides, and returned to Kris Karcher, on 17 March 2010, for DNA analysis. Subsequently, an additional, very short (~4mm) human hair fragment was recovered from the vacuum sample from the trunk.

Wave 3

Five items of clothing, a pair of jeans (# 212), a tank top (# 213), a sports bra (# 214), and two shoes (# 160 and # 170) were examined for the presence of trace evidence, particularly any potential paint particles. Most of the fabric from the jeans, the tank top and the sports bra, were infiltrated with decomposition products which hampered the examination of their surfaces for the detection of trace evidence.

A gray/tan paint particle was recovered from the front of the tank top. The analysis of this paint and comparisons to known paint samples (yet to be received by our laboratory) will be the subject of a subsequent report.

Other materials, including hairs and other particles, were recovered from these five items. No additional analyses have been requested at this point in time regarding these materials.

Re: Paint Analysis - Leah Freeman Homicide Investigation

Dear Lt. Smith,

This report describes the analyses we have conducted regarding the paint particle that we isolated from the tank top (Item #213) (see status report dated 15 Mar 2011).

Samples:

In addition to items already in our possession (see status report dated 15 Mar 2011), we received the following additional evidence on 16 Mar 2011:

- RLM 001 – paint sample from Mustang (top of trunk)
- RLM 002 - paint sample from Mustang (bottom of trunk)
- RLM 003 - paint sample from Mustang (side of trunk)
- RLM 004 - paint sample from Mustang (driver side rear panel)
- RLM 005 - paint sample from Mustang (under hood)
- RLM 006 - paint sample from Mustang (pass. side front end)

- PDS 001 - paint sample from KIA (left front fender)
- PDS 002 - paint sample from KIA (left front fender primer)
- PDS 003 - paint sample from KIA (right front bumper)
- PDS 004 - paint sample from KIA (trunk wall/floor)
- PDS 005 - paint sample from KIA (trunk lid)

Analysis:

A questioned gray/tan paint particle was isolated during the examination and recovery of trace evidence from the tank top (Item #213) (Figure 1). The particle consists of a single layer. A small subsample of the particle was isolated for further analysis. A portion of this subsample was mounted in 1.66 index of refraction oil for examination using polarized light microscopy (PLM). A high concentration of discrete particles, likely titanium dioxide, can be observed at high magnifications (Figure 2).

- 465 -

Another portion of this subsample was prepared for chemical analysis using Fourier transform infrared microspectroscopy (micro-FTIR). Interpretation of the spectrum (Figure 3) indicates that the paint is an alkyd melamine containing titanium dioxide (used as a pigment and/or as a filler).

The eleven known paint samples (RLM 001-006 and PDS 001-005) were examined for the presence of paint similar in color to the questioned gray/tan particle from Item #213. Samples of any paint that resembled the questioned paint particle were isolated analyzed by micro-FTIR. Numerous off-white, gray or tan colored paints were analyzed but none were chemically consistent with the questioned paint particle from Item #213.

Conclusions:

The questioned particle of gray/tan paint recovered from Item #213 was determined to be inconsistent with all of the examined paint from the eleven known samples (RLM 001-006 and PDS 001-005).

It should be noted that while automotive paint is a likely possibility for the origin of the questioned paint particle (based on the presence of the melamine catalyst), others such as maintenance paints (e.g., paint used on tools), are possible as well.

If you have any questions concerning this report or if we may be of further assistance, please do not hesitate to contact either of us directly. Thank you for consulting Microtrace.

CONCLUSIONS:

1. The DNA profile from Exhibit 1 (right Nike shoe) and Exhibit 2.1.2 (swab from blood on left sole) matches the DNA profile from Leah Freeman (Exhibit 4). The frequency of occurrence of an unrelated individual in a random population exhibiting this STR profile is less than 1 in 10 billion in Caucasians, Hispanics and African-Americans.
2. The DNA profile from Leah Freeman's toothbrush is consistent with coming from a child of Corliss Courtright (Exhibit 9) and Dennis Freeman (Exhibit 10).
3. The DNA profiles from Exhibit 2.3 (left Nike shoe) indicate the presence of DNA from more than one person. The major profile is consistent with coming from Leah Freeman. The minor profile is from a male.
4. The DNA profiles from Exhibit 11 (white sock) indicates the presence of DNA from more than one person. Leah Freeman is excluded as the contributor of the major profile in this mixture. The minor profile is below the threshold for making a conclusive determination.
5. Leah Freeman is excluded as the contributor to the DNA profile from Exhibit 12.3 (Adidas sock). The profile is from a male. This profile has been compared to profiles stored in the Oregon State Police databases. No matches were found at this time. This profile will be stored and periodically compared to said databases, as new samples continue to be received. Should a future match be found, you will be notified at that time.

The population frequencies are calculated from the allele frequencies found in the FBI STR databases published in the Journal of Forensic Sciences (JFSCAS 44(6)(1999)).

RESULTS OF LABORATORY EXAMINATIONS

Right Shoe EX1 OON-481

No blood staining was found on this shoe. Other than wear and tear type damage to the shoe there were no signs that the shoe had been recently damaged or scuffed whilst being dragged across the ground.

Left Shoe EX2 OON-481

Traces of blood were found on the underside, towards the inner aspect. An area of diffuse blood staining was found on the lace, approximately 40 centimeters from one end. Areas had been cut from the back of the tongue and ankle, presumably for other tests prior to my examination. In the absence of any DNA profiling results I am unable to assess whether or not any of the remaining blood should be tested further.

The left shoe smells of decay and degradation, in a similar manner to the clothing, whereas the right shoe does not.

It was noted that the linings of both shoes bear several pills of red fibres. Such extraneous fibres could be matched with socks worn with the shoes.

Clothing

The clothing was found to be in a much worse condition than envisaged

looking at photographs of the deceased where she was found. The garments had an extensive covering of decayed body tissue and fats on the inner surfaces. Some of this had transferred to outer areas possibly due to their having been packaged.

Loose extraneous surface fibres and debris have been recovered from those less contaminated areas on the jeans, vest and bra, however the tapings have not been examined further.

No semen has been found on the vest or bra.

The jeans were tested for semen and none found. This was achieved by using our usual chemical screening method to indicate possible semen followed by extraction of selected areas and preparation of a stained microscope slide to identify sperm. Whilst no semen was found, I cannot exclude the possibility that there may be azospermic semen present, ie semen from a vasectomised male, but I am reasonably sure that there are no sperm on the jeans.

On receipt at the laboratory examination of the jeans indicated the presence of two 'holes' in the seat/crotch area. This damage was presumably present when the body was recovered and not created during laboratory examinations.

Swabs were taken from the button and zip pull of the jeans fastener, however, these areas were not void of other staining found on the garment and hence may not be suitable for Low Copy Number DNA profiling. These swabs have been retained for return with the other case exhibits.

No specific area of blood staining was found on the garments probably due to the extensive body tissue staining on them. Two areas of more concentrated blood staining were found on the lower back of the vest, but there is nothing to indicate that this has resulted from a specific injury other than decomposition of the body.

Damage to the jeans and vest/bra is consistent with chemical effect on fabrics of body tissue/fats and chemicals leaching from the body over a period of time. Other smaller areas of damage may be rodent bite marks. Areas on the straps and upper back of the vest/ bra indicate the presence of broken elastic threads in the shoulder straps. I am unable to assess whether or not this damage has resulted from contact with a sharp edge or a result of from another mechanism such as rodent action.

Damage to the back of the upper garments whilst not overlapping, could be considered to have occurred whilst the garments were worn together, allowing for some movement between the layers of garments. However, with the exception of a cut in the hem of the top, there is nothing to indicate how or when the damage was made. The possibility that Leah was stabbed cannot be eliminated, however, any 'stab' cuts are no longer recognisable due to the decay in the fabrics.

Summary and Conclusion

- 1) There is nothing to indicate the presence of semen on the items examined.
- 2) There is no specific pattern in blood to indicate trauma such as a stabbing assault, although such a possibility cannot be discounted.
- 3) Tapings and swabbings will be retained at laboratory in connection with this case.
- 4) The overall findings provide no additional scientific evidence to assist in addressing the issue as to the cause of LEAH FREEMAN's death or the identity of her assailant.

As with the arrival of the evidence, our examination can be divided into three waves:

Wave 1

The three tapelifts, one from the shirt (Ex. 26) and two from the pants (Ex. 27), were examined for the presence of trace evidence. Various particles of debris, including numerous fibers and hairs, both animal and human, were observed on the tape lifts. Nine human hairs (coded 4A, 17C, 19A, 19C, 20D #1, 20D #2, 23D, 28B #1, and 28B #2) from the shirt tape lift were isolated, placed on individual slides, and returned to Kris Karcher, on 28 January 2010, for DNA analysis.

Wave 2

Preliminary examinations were conducted on the foam from the trunk (# 3224), the fibrous material from the trunk (# 3225), and the carpet from the back window (#3226). The carpet from the back window appears to be residential in origin and therefore, did not originate from the vehicle.

our examination primarily focused on the tapelifts (# 3231) and the vacuum samples (# 3233) from the trunk and back seat of the vehicle.

Various particles of debris, including numerous fibers and hairs, both animal and human, were observed on the tape lifts and the material from the vacuum samples. Two human hairs (coded trunk #1 and trunk #2) were isolated from the trunk vacuum samples, placed on individual slides, and returned to Kris Karcher, on 17 March 2010, for DNA analysis. Subsequently, an additional, very short (~4mm) human hair fragment was recovered from the vacuum sample from the trunk.

Wave 3

Five items of clothing, a pair of jeans (# 212), a tank top (# 213), a sports bra (# 214), and two shoes (# 160 and # 170) were examined for the presence of trace evidence, particularly any potential paint particles. Most of the fabric from the jeans, the tank top and the sports bra, were infiltrated with decomposition products which hampered the examination of their surfaces for the detection of trace evidence.

A gray/tan paint particle was recovered from the front of the tank top. The analysis of this paint and comparisons to known paint samples (yet to be received by our laboratory) will be the subject of a subsequent report.

Other materials, including hairs and other particles, were recovered from these five items. No additional analyses have been requested at this point in time regarding these materials.
